EDITOR'S BOTTOMLINE

Friendship is another beautiful kind of relationship. Many of us may have friends with whom we spend the happiest moments of our lives. We continue to nurture and nourish friendships even in our adult lives, even in our 60s and 70s. In fact, we might need friends desperately to ward off loneliness in our old age.

Colleagues who work with us and interact with us for most of our waking hours also contribute to our wellness and contentment. If we do not have a healthy relationship with our colleagues, our superiors, etc., we may have to endure very stressful times, resulting in the loss of peace of mind. The art of getting along with people is the key to professional relationships.

The relationship is gossamer-like and tenuous. It needs tender care. If we do not handle the delicate fabric carefully, ruptures might occur, and some would be difficult to mend. In this life, what finally endures is the sweetness of the love and care we receive from those who constitute our inner world.

30-page chargesheet against man for drowning rat

Budaun: Uttar Pradesh Police have filed a 30-page chargesheet in a Budaun Court against a man accused of tying a stone to a rat's tail and drowning it in a drain in November last year.

The Police investigation "joined every sequence" and prepared the chargesheet based on the forensic report, media videos and information gathered from various departments, said Circle Officer (city) Alok Mishra.

The post-mortem report served as the foundation for the chargesheet. According to the report, the rodent had lung and liver infections and died as a result of asphyxiation caused by a lung infection.

Accused Manoj Kumar was charged with animal cruelty on November 25. According to Vikendra Sharma, an animal activist, Kumar threw a rat into a drain after tying a stone to its tail.

Leadership must take forward Brand Mysuru

T.V. Mohandas Pai, Co-Founder and Chairman, Aarin Capital, at TiECON 2023

Mysuru, Apr. 15 (RK&BCT)- Industrialists, vision groups, start-ups and stakeholders of Mysuru must effectively lobby to build 'Brand Mysuru' and the brand value cannot be achieved or enhanced with just board-room discussion or industry meetings. Things must see a change on the ground and for that the Government must be forced to act, said Chairman of Manipal Global Education Services and Co-Founder and Chairman, Aarin Capital T.V. Mohandas Pai.

He was delivering the Inaugural Keynote Address on the second day of the two-day TiECON Mysuru 2023 with theme 'Business Scalability and Sustainability,' organised by The Indus Entrepreneurs (TiE), Mysuru Chapter, at Radisson Blu Plaza Hotel on M.G. Road in city this morning.

"The benefits of Brand Mysuru can only be realised if the industrial and entrepreneurial leadership of Mysuru force the political leadership to toe the line and bring more infrastructure, facilities and also provide a market to the local agriculture economy. Have a road map and force the political leadership to act," he said.

Mohandas Pai made these comments answering the question on building Brand Mysuru raised by TiE Charter Member and former Chairman of the Confederation Indian Industry (CII), Mysuru Zone, Bhaskar Kalale.

After slipshod works, D.D. Urs Road re-asphalted now

Mysuru, Apr. 15 (RK&BCT)- Following a public outcry over slipshod asphalting works on the D. Devaraj Urs Road in the heart of the city and the subsequent action by the Public Works Department (PWD) asking the contractor to re-asphalt the road as per the set standards, the road works have been re-initiated now and are likely to be completed by Apr. 18.

The contractor had executed shoddy works in about a 400-metre stretch and the issue came to light when alert public found the road work substandard and not as per norms. People alerted the PWD and Executive Engineer Raju personally visited the spot recently.

During inspection, Raju and team removed a half-inch thick layer of tar up to 40 metres with the help of an earth-moving vehicle and found that the asphalting and binding works have been implemented in a shoddy manner. The contractor was pulled up for the mess and was asked to re-lay the road.

It may be mentioned here that on Apr. 11, Star of Mysore had published a report 'D.D. Urs Road 'TAR-Nished'! Re-asphalting perfectly good road costs taxpayers' money'.

The project was launched to re-asphalt the 850-metre stretch of D. Devaraj Urs Road from the K.R. Circle to the JLB Road Junction and lay box drains on the sides and also re-laying and beautifying of the footpath. The road is 16-metre wide and plans were on to give a world-class look to the stretch. The project also included the asphalting of the adjacent roads that link to the Urs Road.

The total project cost is Rs. 9 crore and the Mysuru City Corporation (MCC) had plans to give a facelift to the Devaraja Urs Road to resemble the Brigade Road in Bengaluru.

As it was a major project that affected the image of the city, Chamaraja MLA L. Nagendra too got involved and he took exception to the poor-quality works and directed the MCC and PWD to take action against the contractor.

Now the contractor has begun re-laying the road. Earlier, the road works were carried out by the contractor in the night as there would be less vehicles. However, this time, he has been told to carry out the work during the day time in a transparent manner. Traffic on the road has been diverted to nearby roads.

Every day, 200 metres of the road are being asphalted.

"The road works will be completed by Tuesday (Apr. 18) and the Police have requested us not to pursue the work on Sunday (Apr. 16) as the weekend traffic would be heavy and it would be difficult to manage traffic diversions on other nearby roads," Raju told Star of Mysore.

'Reimburse business lost due to re-asphalting'

A reader writes to Star of Mysore on the waste of money and business loss

Sir,

Time and time again, the authorities show us that they do not have proper brains in their team. Around 4-5 months back, D. Devaraj Urs Road was closed for 3-4 days for laying tar and this caused huge business loss for all the shops on the main road.

Now, again, out of nowhere just because elections are nearing, they are re-asphalting the road as the previous work was shoddy and of low quality. Moreover, they have decided to do it on Thursday (Apr. 13), Friday (Apr. 14, Government holiday) and on the weekend.

Business on Devaraj Urs Road is at its peak during Government holidays and weekends. If the authorities close the main road these days, who is going to pay for the lost business? Will the contractor, elected Corporator or the local MLA pay the shopkeepers?

Everyone keeps complaining about this issue but there is no one to listen to our queries and problems.

Seed Aadhaar - PAN numbers with UPOR

Sir,

Now, that the Urban Property Ownership Record (UPOR) is becoming an important document in property matters, Mysuru City Corporation (MCC) should make it mandatory for property owners to seed the UPOR, Aadhaar and PAN numbers in the property tax system.

When I went to collect my UPOR Property Card, the staff asked me to produce Aadhaar Card. They must take it forward and have the Aadhaar and PAN numbers seeded in the UPOR.

Once the UPOR is seeded in property tax system, Aadhaar and PAN can be matched up and authenticated. Subsequently, the UPOR gets seeded into the Registered Deeds in Sub-Registrar Office records.

JD(S) releases second list of candidates

Bhavani Revanna misses out on Hassan ticket; Y.S.V. Datta gets Kadur ticket

Bengaluru, Apr. 15 (KMS & DM)- After a watchful wait, the JD(S) on Friday released its second list of 49 candidates for the May 10 Assembly polls. The party had announced the names of candidates for 93 segments last month even before the poll schedule was announced.

The wrangle between Bhavani Revanna, wife of former Minister H.D. Revanna and former Chief Minister H.D. Kumaraswamy (HDK) over Hassan ticket has finally ended with H.P. Swarup, son of former MLA late Prakash succeeding in getting the party ticket. Though Bhavani was hell bent on getting the Hassan ticket, HDK, who all along was in favour of fielding a party worker, had the last say when the party announced Swarup as its Hassan candidate in the second list yesterday. The party also changed its Kadur candidate replacing C.M. Dhananjaya with veteran Y.S.V. Datta, who returned to the JD(S) fold after a brief stint with the Congress.

The other candidates announced by the JD(S) in the second list include: Kadabur Manjunath (Gundlupet), H.D. Revanna (Holenarasipur), Jayaprakash (H.D. Kote), Puttaswamy (Kollegal), A. Manju (Arakalgud), K.T. Shantakumar (Tiptur), Javarayigowda (Yeshwanthpur), Rajanna (Mahalakshmi Layout), C.N. Balakrishna (Shravanabelagola), R. Ugresh (Sira), Shashikanth Padasalagi (Athani), Nasir Hussain (Kalaburagi North), Allabaksh Munna (Ballari), Noor Ahmed (Harapanahalli), H.K. Kumaraswamy (Sakaleshpur), Munegowda (Yelahanka) and Manohar Tahsildar (Hanagal).

However, the JD(S) is yet to name its candidate for Chamaraja and N.R. segments of Mysuru city, while it is uncertain whether the party would field its candidate from Nanjangud (SC) Constituency as many local party leaders are in favour of not contesting the seat as a mark of sympathy for Congress candidate Darshan Dhruvanarayan.

Produce one of these documents for voting

Road to Riches!

(A) Re-asphalting good road. (B) Old good road.

Since our NGOs are quiet, our Opposition parties are quiet, and we Mysureans are quiet about bad roads, we will only ever have bad roads. Our silence has paved a path of unpliable roads for us, and road to riches for them, the politicians. We deserve it.

Elections are here and cosmetic tricks have begun — TAR-nishing city roads. The elections are here, and our Government is busy asphalting roads. But why are they asphalting good roads?!

D. Devaraj Urs Road was fine. The KRS Road, the patch near the Railway Museum, was fine. The patch near Akashvani Circle was fine. Main roads in residential areas are fine. So why did they re-asphalt main roads that are in good shape when interior roads need more attention?

And why are they doing it so unscientifically? And why just before monsoon?

Because re-asphalting good roads only requires spraying tar, whereas if they wanted to make a good road, they would have to peel the bad road, prepare the ground underneath, and then asphalt it. This means more time to complete. More money, which means a longer tendering process and longer time to get a kickback.

Worse, by re-tarring good roads without peeling the old one, the height of the road keeps increasing until the footpath is below the road. This causes rain water to overflow into establishments and houses besides the roads. The people will obviously complain and then 'viola' it's time for another 'big tender' — more money again.

Monsoon will soon be upon us and after the rains, the roads will peel off. Then in the name of beautifying the city for Dasara, again re-asphalting will be done — more money again.

In short, by unscientifically re-asphalting good roads the Government is prepping up the roads to be bad in time so they can call for 'tender' again and money can be made again, and again.

Our roads are NOT made for driving; they are made for earning. Roads are the perennial money-earners for politicians and their contractor friends. Roads can be asphalted often, and therein lies its perennial earning power.

This reminds us of the saying, "when a politician sees the light at the end of a tunnel, he calls a tender to add more tunnels." This keeps the 'billing' perpetual.

Our State in the last five years has spent Rs. 20,060 crore just on the roads in Bengaluru alone! Yet Bengaluru has the worst roads in the country. In 2022, our CM said he would put in place a maintenance audit to monitor road development in Bengaluru. Where is this audit?

Corruption in road construction is so bad that former PM from the Congress Party, Dr. Manmohan Singh, noted, "Corruption in road construction projects has spread like cancer to every corner of our vast country."

But now as good roads in our city are being destroyed, why are the Congress and JD(S) MLA aspirants in our city quiet? Why aren't the local opposition parties Congress and JD(S) making this an election issue?

No Government ever curtails this re-asphalting menace because road contractors are politically connected and are significant donors to the party's kitty.

In Germany, payment to a contractor is made completely at the end of a 4-year warranty period. In Spain, final payment is made at the end of the 1-year guarantee period. Sweden retains half of the bond amount until the completion of the warranty period.

In India too we have a similar 'performance guarantee deposit'. But the deposit is so insignificant compared to the money a contractor makes by NOT making the road, that he doesn't mind losing it.

In 2015, the Mumbai High Court, in an interim order, held that "right to have properly maintained roads is part of the fundamental right guaranteed by Article 21 of the Constitution of India and in the event, any loss is caused due to its violation, the citizens have a right to seek compensation." But alas, who cares?

Of course, sometimes compensations are indeed given but in other countries, giving compensation is seen as 'loss' to the exchequer but in India, it is seen as an opportunity for free publicity by politicians.

Ironic, considering their corruption was the reason for bad roads and the accident. Worse, the tax-payer gets looted twice. First the politician makes money in the form of kickback, and after the accident due to his corruption we pay for his publicity in the form of victim compensation. Wah Bhai Wah!

And no one is protesting!

Mysureans, NGOs and Opposition parties have become complacent. And when you become complacent your leaders become indifferent to your needs and are emboldened in their corruption.

As the saying goes, "Find out just what people will quietly submit to and you have the exact measure of injustice and wrong which will be imposed upon them."

Since our NGOs are quiet, our Opposition parties are quiet, and we Mysureans are quiet about bad roads, we will only ever have bad roads.

Our silence has paved a path of unpliable roads for us, and road to riches for them, the politicians. We deserve it.

Leadership must take forward Brand Mysuru

"There are three sectors to the economy — Agriculture, Industry and Services. First, you must have a vision on where you want to be in 2030. Think of how to connect markets to the farmers so that they get better pricing for their products, secondly think of how industries can create more jobs and thirdly, plan how the service industries can make a difference to Mysuru, what are the infrastructural needs, tourism initiatives, healthcare infrastructure and think of making Mysuru as a National Education Centre," Mohandas Pai said.

"Come out with an action plan and sit with the political leaders, your representatives in Vidhan Soudha and the Parliament and force the policy-makers to act. Let me tell you that no one in Vidhan Soudha cares for you. You do not exist for them as they will be busy in their own official rigamarole. You must lobby hard and exert pressure on them to act," Pai said.

Earlier in his talk, Mohandas Pai, who was a member of Infosys' Board of Directors and Head - Administration, Education and Research, Finance, Human Resources and Infosys Leadership Institute, said that constant human activity leads to increased specialisation, and increased specialisation leads to increased productivity and income.

GDP of India and China

For nearly 2000 years and until 1820, the combined GDP of India and China alone was more than half of the entire world. This prosperity endured through all the wars and frequent churn of empires in Asia, from the Ottoman Empire in the west, to Imperial China and Japan in the east. India saw waves of Asian forces, some coming for plunder and others staying to rule, before the British Empire was established in India, he noted.

"The British looted India of its wealth to build its empire. Dr. Utsa Patnaik of Columbia University estimates that in today's money 45 trillion dollars was the value of loot. The British impoverished India by its loot. But now there is no need for India to seek any favours from any country. India is now a 3.15 trillion-dollar economy," he said.

Pai also stated that the deprivation of Indian people over the last 75 years and not providing them basic facilities was the biggest problem in India but the Narendra Modi Government has taken care of providing a roof over the head to every Indian, water in the tap and money in the bank accounts. India's GDP will go up to Rs. 273 lakh crore and 450 billion dollars in a year, he added.

T.V. Mohandas Pai, Co-Founder and Chairman, Aarin Capital and B.V. Naidu, Chairman of Karnataka Digital Economy Mission, seen among audience at TiECON Mysuru 2023 this morning.

Transforming India into a knowledge-based economy

India's Government launched the Digital India programme in July 2015 with the goal of transforming the country into a knowledge-based economy with strong digital capabilities. This was the beginning of the country's digital revolution, said Mohandas Pai.

Sharing thoughts on India's digital revolution, he said that India has set its agenda of Digital India very well, and being the 5th largest economy of the world, India has also become a global leader in the digital revolution.

"We must remember that 250 years ago the industrial revolution took place, it happened in Great Britain, the age of the missions arrived and that led to colonisation and impoverishment of India. From 2025, the digital revolution has sorted and India has become a global leader. What India has done today, no country in human history has been able to do," he noted.

Highlighting the achievements of digital innovations, Pai said, "The biggest challenge that India has today is how does the Government reach the last person in the queue and India has done that through digital innovation."

Pai shared some data and said, this year India will export 200 billion dollars of software, the largest export of software services by any country in the world. 60 percent of the global outsourcing comes to India.

Giving expert views on the startup ecosystem in India, Mohandas Pai said, "We will have 200 thousand startups by 2025 December and will probably have 250 unicorns and we can create around 1.5 trillion dollars of value and we can have around 35 lakh employees by then."

Economic Survey 2021-22 declared India as the third-largest startup ecosystem in the world, after the US and China. According to Pai, the startup has transformed the view of young people and a new generation of entrepreneurs is being created.

Congress third list: M.K. Somashekar from KR and K. Harish Gowda from Chamaraja

No Kolar as second seat for Siddharamaiah

Mysuru, Apr. 15- The AICC (All India Congress Committee) released its third list of 43 candidates in New Delhi this afternoon, according to which former MLA M.K. Somashekar is the candidate from Krishnaraja (KR) Constituency and K. Harish Gowda is the party candidate from Chamaraja in city.

Congress also named Kothur Manjunath as party candi-date from Kolar, thus dashing the hopes of former CM Siddharamaiah who had also aspired to contest from Kolar, apart from Varuna in Mysuru district, where he is already the party candidate.

Laxman Savadi, who quit BJP only yesterday miffed over missing out on party ticket from Athani, has been given Congress ticket from Athani.

The Congress had announced its first list of candidates (124 candidates) last month and the second list (42 candidates) earlier this month. Now with the announcement of 43 candidates in the third list, the party still have to name its candidates for the rest of the 15 Constituencies.

TiE Mysuru hosts entrepreneurial meet

▶ Adopt values, not shortcuts: Dr. B.S. Ajaikumar's clarion call to entrepreneurs

▶ Lifetime Achievement Award presented to Abbas Vagh, K.B. Ganapathy, B.R. Pai

Dr. B.S. Ajaikumar, Executive Chairman, Healthcare Global Enterprises Ltd., addressing at TiECON Mysuru 2023 conference at Radisson Blu Plaza Hotel in city last evening. Picture right shows Charu Sharma (front row-extreme right), Director, Mashal Sports Pvt., Ltd., who delivered the closing keynote address and Pavan Ranga, MD & CEO of Rangsons, among audience.

Mysuru, Apr. 15 (BS)- Dr. B.S. Ajaikumar, Executive Chairman, Healthcare Global Enterprises Ltd., has given a clarion call for the entrepreneurs to stick to values than taking shortcuts, to stay afloat in the realm.

Delivering the keynote address on the topic 'Excellence Has No Borders' during the inauguration of two-day TiECON Mysuru 2023, the annual flagship event of TiE Mysuru organised at Radisson Blu Plaza Hotel in the city last evening, Dr. Ajaikumar recalled some of the instances in his life, where there were compelling situations to get the job done at ease by greasing the palms of others, but he was firm never to indulge in such practices, by telling unto himself — Not Over My Dead Body. If one takes shortcut for success, there will be a day again, when we will be back to square one, he underlined.

TiECON Mysuru, one of the largest entrepreneurial conferences with the theme 'Business Scalability and Sustainability,' aims to bring together all stakeholders on a single platform.

Dr. Ajaikumar also gave a call to stop following the west including in the health sector, as there is a set notion to follow the foreign protocol. We have better infrastructure and laboratories, Indian genomic data, but still we wait to ape the west. We can't be the followers everytime as we are capable to compete with the rest of the world. We have enormous life in health sector and can be a totally developed country in the realm, he added.

Cutting back to the year 1975, Dr. Ajaikumar said, "The situation in India then was different, as we never had knowledge of what it is to be an entrepreneur and the commitment of giving back to society. But, we had a compulsion to learn and the lure of a green card was very tempting to go (abroad)."

Before returning to India (from USA), Dr. Ajaikumar said, "I started practicing in Chicago and was attending to 150 patients daily. I later opened the door to partnership (with other doctors), to handle the rush. While it was in 80s, I started looking at India and announced the plan to my family members, who too came along with me. The cancer then was being treated using cobalt therapy. A 12-year-old boy at a hospital in Madhya Pradesh had to wait for hours to take the treatment. It acted as a spur to start Bharath Hospital and Institute of Oncology, famously known as Bharath Cancer Hospital, in Mysuru during 1986-87."

He also remarked that "Whatever progress the country has achieved, it is mainly due to the private sector."

Strongly denouncing multi-specialities in health sector, Dr. Ajaikumar said, "According to my personal point of view, we have to practice what we are good at and hence I continued to focus on cancer treatment, and turned down many such suggestions on incorporating multi-speciality facilities that came in."

He also cited the example of Wipro Chairman Azim Premji who way back in the year 2007 had called expressing his interest to invest in healthcare, despite having everything at his disposal to venture on his own. Likewise, we should look at bolstering other ventures, he said.

As an entrepreneur, especially those in health sector, nobody can be perfect. The oncology care is changing rapidly at every 26 days. Even though Artificial Intelligence (AI) is much talked about, with an entrepreneur once making tall claims about machines replacing manpower in health sector, it's not that easy, as nowadays cancer is diagnosed even among those sans vices that cause the disease, he asserted.

Before summing up, Dr. Ajaikumar told the wannabe entrepreneurs to never get bogged down by failures. The failures teach a lesson to ponder over the mistakes and sharpen the nuances to stay on the course. Better, one should learn to love failures, he said.

Mysore Memories...

T.S. Venkannayya: The Big Brother of Kannada Literary Pantheon - 2

By Dr. Bhagirath S. Naganath

Maharaja's College had a Common Room where everyone assembled to converse and exchange notes. T.S. Venkannayya (T.S.V.) was a regular participant in this arcadia and had a large fan-following among students and peers alike. A.N. Murthy Rao records that, although T.S.V. joined the Common Room as a member (and remained one all throughout), he was for all practical purposes its undisputed leader and rest of the bunch, his humble followers had the least bit of enthusiasm to rebel or break free from his ever-loving embrace! Venkannayya was the founder of the 'University Teachers' Association' which was a forerunner to 'Prasaranga.' These and many more such initiatives were collectively described by Prof. Rollo as the 'Mysore Experiment.'

T. S. Venkannayya's Students

Venkannayya inspired and guided a whole line-up of writers and litterateurs of his time — T.N. Srikantaiah, K.S. Narasimha Swamy, M.V. Seetharamaiah, C.K. Venkataramaiah, K. Venkataramappa and G. Venkatasubbiah.

Kuvempu and Masti Venkatesha Iyengar

T.S. Venkannayya moulded and shaped K.V. Puttappa (Kuvempu) who became Kannada literature's future beacon. Puttappa had sent in his entry to a story writing competition. It was adjudged as the best entry and the first prize was awarded to it. Puttappa could not attend the award ceremony personally. T.S. Venkannayya took it upon himself to receive the prize and deliver it personally to the discerning young boy, who was resident at the Ramakrishna Ashram in Mysore. This gesture from a senior member of the faculty captured Puttappa's heart. Years later, Kuvempu would record this incident in his diary (transl.) — 'He (T.S. Venkannayya) was ever ready to nourish and nurture a true talent when he came across it. It was in his maternal embrace that I found myself overcoming my otherwise cold desolation, on more than one occasion.'

Prof. T. S. Venkannayya

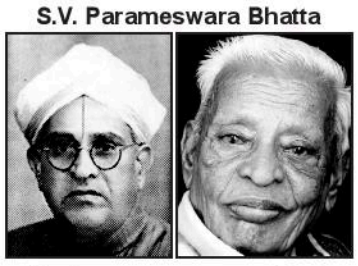
Kuvempu further records that Venkannayya's teaching style was such that every student in the classroom felt that he (or she) was indeed the centre of Venkannayya's attention and hence felt elated! Venkannayya served, in Kuvempu's words, as a bridge between Kannada and English poetry as he was able to discuss both with effortless ease. He held both literary worlds on the same plane and was masterly in this comparative teaching technique. Puttappa's participation in various literary events, competitions and conferences were at Venkannayya's behest.

In his later years, T.S. Venkannayya would frequent Kuvempu's house and spend hours listening to his poetry and other writings. On one such occasion, Venkannayya spent half a day listening to Kuvempu recite his poetry. Tired, Venkannayya took leave in the afternoon. Just before he got up to leave, Kuvempu offered to read few lines from his latest work — 'Ramayana Darshanam.' Venkannayya promised that he would make another trip in a few days' time and had to head home as he was feeling fatigued.

The next evening Kuvempu found himself seated in his bedroom giving the final touches to his book. This task preoccupied him completely into the late hours of the evening. Around 11 pm in the night, he distinctly heard a knock on the door. He impatiently stood up, walked to the door and was surprised to find no one outside! Perplexed he stood there for a while and then closed the door in disbelief and made his way back to the table. Then, he distinctly felt another presence in the room, almost right behind him, seated on his bed. This greatly unnerved him. Nonetheless he gathered his spirits, remained calm and tried to rationalise the experience in his mind. He was giving finishing touches to his 'Ramayana Darshanam' and completed it by dedicating it to his guru T.S. Venkannayya in the very first page. Exhausted and famished, he went to bed. He woke up next morning to the sad news of Venkannayya's demise the night before!

While in life, Kuvempu never got an opportunity to show 'Ramayana Darshanam' or read verses from it to his guru, it was almost as if, Venkannayya in his final moments had decided to visit and peruse this work himself before departing from this world! Kuvempu also acknowledged Venkannayya as his inspiration for his novel 'Kanooru Heggadithi' set in Malnad. T.S. Venkannayya undertook a tour of the Western Ghats to enjoy the lush environs of the Malnad region, as described in his students' novels.

D.L. Narasimhachar and S.V. Parameswara Bhatta



Venkannayya was instrumental in guiding D.L. Narasimhachar (D.L.N.) through the basics of editing old palm leaf texts. S.V. Parameswara Bhatta (S.V.P.B.) records in his memoirs that Venkannayya always made it a point to feed his students well before beginning one of his impromptu discourses! Once during a College competition arranged in the Karnataka Sangha, S.V.P.B. performed very well and yet missed out on the prize. Venkannayya who was there in the audience realised that his student may feel dismayed at this unfortunate turn of events. He at once instituted a prize and presented to his student! S.V.P.B. treasured this prize well into his later years — a volume of Basavarajadevara Ragale.

Manvi Narasingha Rao

R. Narasimhachar, B. M. Srikantaiah and T. S. Venkannayya were conducting the viva voce exam for Manvi Narasingha Rao during his M.A. finals. Rao had to travel back to Hyderabad in the evening. After the examination, Rao was about to make his way back to the hostel to get ready for the journey. Venkannayya caught him outside the examination hall and implored him to visit him at his residence for a few minutes before embarking on a journey to Hyderabad. Perplexed, Rao agreed to his teacher's request and visited his house that evening.

To his surprise, Venkannayya came out of his room dressed in traditional attire carrying a silver plate full of coconut, betel leaf, arecanuts and some token of cash in it. Presenting this plate to him, he kept a beautiful red rose on top of the ensemble and congratulated Rao. By now Rao had little clue as to what was happening. Venkannayya gave him the good news that he had indeed passed the exam and furthermore had done so in first class! He embraced Rao affectionately and bid him adieu from Mysore. Rao remembered this show of affection with great relish in his memoirs decades later.

M. Shivaram (Ra. Shi.)

M. Shivaram, known better by his pen-name Ra. Shi., is remembered for his years as the editor of 'Koravanji'. A student of Central College, Bangalore, he and his friends during their student years had chosen Sanskrit as their second language as it was believed that it was an easier way of scoring good marks.

But over time, they learnt from their friends that their respective Kannada classes under T.S. Venkannayya's tutelage were superlative both in quality and content! Shivaram and friends felt left out. With this in mind, they approached Venkannayya and requested that they be taught select portions of the Kannada syllabus as well. T.S. Venkannayya thought for a moment and with a smile on his lips readily agreed.

Shivaram writes in his memoirs that these classes by Venkannayya on 'Gadayuddha' were a most memorable experience for these part-time Kannada students!

His son's death

In 1931, Kannada Sahitya Sammelan was conducted in Mysore. As part of this celebration, various events were also organised. A Gamaka recital was arranged and the participants were invited to lunch at Venkannayya's residence. Venkannayya's close friend Rajeeva Lochanam was also present. Just before lunch was to be served, there was a loud shriek from downstairs. Venkannayya rushed downstairs to find that his ailing four-year-old son had passed away. He had been sick for a while and had been shown to many doctors and treatments provided for. But it was all in vain.

Venkannayya was heartbroken and had tears in his eyes. He composed himself and requested his brother and son-in-law to make necessary arrangements to carry out the funeral. He washed his face and with a solemn resolve made his way upstairs to make sure that lunch was served as planned! After every invitee was fed to his satisfaction, they took leave of him. Rajeeva Lochanam stayed back to enquire as to why he didn't see Venkannayya's wife during lunchtime — normally she served everyone her tasty payasam.

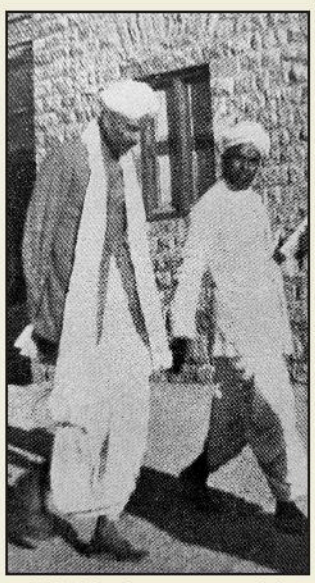
Venkannayya's persona



T.S. Venkannayya with A.R. Krishnashastry

Venkannayya was in excess of six feet height and was of lean built. His face had an unmistakable square jawed countenance, with a thickset moustache and sported a rather contemplative look. He was always affable in his demeanour towards everyone. A Melukote dhoti and a black coat completed his usual attire. Owing to his towering height, he was known to slouch a bit at the shoulders and was most often seen to have his hands clasped behind him. He would perform sandhyavandhane daily followed by the reading of a few verses of Ramayana and Bhagavadgita.
